Metropolitan Commercial Bank's Great Neck Banking Center Team Provides Financial Literacy Lessons to QSAC Adult Students

Great Neck, N.Y. (April 18, 2017) – Metropolitan Commercial Bank's Great Neck banking center recently hosted an informative financial literacy event for adult students from the Quality Services for the Autism Community (QSAC). As part of the event, Vice President and Market Sales Manager George Lotto and the Great Neck banking center team gave an interactive presentation on the basics of personal banking.

QSAC is a New York City and Long Island-based nonprofit organization that supports children and adults with autism, offering a wide-range of educational programs to students. During the workshop, the Bank's representatives led the adult students through a series of financial-literacy lessons including how to manage personal money, paying bills and writing checks.

This event was part of Metropolitan Commercial Bank's expanding range of community involvement programs that are scheduled throughout the year at each of the Bank's five banking centers in Great Neck, Manhattan and Boro Park, Brooklyn. "Metropolitan Commercial Bank continually seeks partnerships with community organizations making a positive impact in the communities we serve," said Laura Capra, the Bank's Senior Vice President and Head of Retail Banking. "QSAC is enriching the lives of its students and their families and helping them achieve greater independence. We are thrilled to be able to assist in this mission by helping QSAC's adult students become more proficient with their banking skills."
